

METHOD FOR GENERATION OF ELECTRONIC REPORT

Abstract

A method for compiling electronic data. Electronic data is received on a computing platform from at least one external source. At least a portion of the collected data is inserted into one or more data fields. The one or more data fields include an electronic scoreboard of interrelated data. The data on the electronic scoreboard is updated and at least one measurement of updated scoreboard data is calculated.